LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY DOINGS.
Special Correspondence.
Regina, June 19.—Premier Bultman made his budget speech yesterday afternoon. It took for two hours, saying that it was disappointing in these times of prosperity that the Territories alone had to complain of deficit, unequal revenue, and so on, when the Northwest had contributed so much to that prosperity and development.
The blame lay with the Dominion government and the remedy was provincial status. There was no item in the estimates for a land office because the federal parliament had not passed the necessary legislation to transfer the office. Neither was there anything in the estimates involving capital expenditure, which was clear proof, they did not accept the offer from Ottawa for invitation on capital account. He regretted that offer, as one to run into debt, to mortgage the Northwest, and he did not see they should accept that until they received a fair proposition of income to which they were entitled.
At the same time if the Dominion government made an offer of a capital advance on reasonable terms it would be the duty of the Northwest government and only to consider, but to accept the terms. The honorable gentleman said that always from the very first, the grant to the Territories had been insufficient. Parliament had never appreciated its duties to the Northwest.
This applied to whatever party was in power. If in the days of $10,000,000 surpluses, the comfort and contentment of a large population was not deemed of the same importance as wharves and breakwaters in thickly populated portions of the country, then the people of the Northwest were forced to the conclusion that the present dependence on parliament must be paid an end to. If provincial autonomy were postponed their duty was to do the best they could under the circumstances. Certain things had to be done and had to be paid for and the question of direct taxation and mundane to have consideration in the necessities were questions that would soon be held in the fall.

ALBERTA NEED OAT COMPETITION.
Three magnificent prizes are being offered by A. G. Richardson, agent of Exhibition Lands, at the Edmonton Industrial Exhibition this year for samples of Alberta seed oats. They will no doubt be keenly contested for by farmers of this district, who grow world famous oats. Some excellent examples may be expected to be seen in the hall. The prizes are: first prize, silver medal and $25 cash; second prize, $10; third prize, $10. The same prizes were given last year.

There will be a cricket match played tomorrow between the Edmonton and Strathcona teams on the exhibition grounds, wickets pitched at two o'clock.

LOCAL

To-night's train is thirty minutes late.
Five hundred iron moulders have struck in Toronto.

The council sits to-night as court of revision on the assessment of 1903.

Yesterday's rain was merely a local storm. It is said that a few miles on the other side of St. Albert no rain fell.

The football match for tonight between Edmonton and Strathcona has been cancelled owing to yesterday's rain.

A special meeting of the Women's Aid Society of the Public Hospital will be held in the council chamber at four p.m. Monday, June 22nd.

Tomorrow is nomination day to fill the vacancy on the Edmonton Protestant public school board. It is urgently requested that there be a large attendance of electors.

An independent weekly newspaper, devoted to the interests of Leduc and district, will make its first appearance on Friday, July 2nd. The office is on Main street, Leduc. The name of the paper is not yet announced.

The waterworks system were given a special test yesterday afternoon. One hundred and fifty pounds of pressure were put on and held at this pressure for several hours. The pressure was then run up to one hundred and eighty pounds. The test proved very satisfactory throughout.

Out of 60,289 immigrants that have entered the west during the first five months of this year over 31,000 came from British speaking countries, viz: Great Britain, the United States and other parts of Canada. Of these 14,773 were English, 3,394 Scotch, 1,385 Irish, 205 Welsh, 1,270 returned Canadians, 10,912 Canadians, 5,472 Americans and 960 consular. The balance were divided as follows: Austrian 166, Belgian 141, Bohemian 115, Dutch 57, French 470, Finnish 539, German 7,025, Russian 519, Galician 5,738, Danish 333, Icelandic 157, Swedish 2,373, Norwegian 3, 015, and 258, unclassified.

Calgary Herald.—A reunion of Toronto newspaper boys was held in the city yesterday. The party consists of T. A. Grogan, the first editor of the Toronto Star, Wray Wallace late of the Toronto Star, Bob English of the Toronto Telegram, John Miller, of the Toronto News, Victor Ross, of the Toronto Globe, W. McK. Davidson, of the Toronto News, and Edward Morison of the Mail and Empire. It is quite a coincidence all these men meeting in Calgary at once. The party had lunch together at the Alberta and enjoyed a hearty talk over the old days of weal and woe when they performed the fully grand in Toronto.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.
John Gundersen, a Slovak lately from the United States, two Galician women and Ole Lovdahl, who has a shack near the railway bridge, appeared before J. F. Forbes, J. P., yesterday afternoon on information laid by city constable Rudd. The Galician women were in the habit of making occasional visits to Lovdahl's shack. Wednesday Gundersen went to spend the day with Ole. He found two Galician women there, and the four partook very liberally of Geneva gin, a stock of which was in hand. Gundersen soon succumbed and lay down to sleep about 11 a.m. When he went to sleep he had a pocketbook containing $60 and a draft for $1,750 on him. He awoke about three p.m. to find that he was missing the pocketbook and consulted Constable Rudd got word of the affair, and from the description given by Gundersen, located the Galician women. After considerable persuaasion and threatening to search, the women delivered up the money and pocketbook. The whole outfit were arranged to Lovdahl and received part of the stolen money. Magistrate Forbes sent the case up for trial.

VEGREVILLE MAIL SERVICE.
Vegreville is the center of the thickly settled Vermilion district. Nothing shows in a more definite way, how quickly the country is settling up than the very large amount of mail that is sent to the Vegreville post office. Settlers from far and wide get their mail there and as new settlers are continually going into that district and into the more distant parts of the district, the volume of mail for Vegreville post office is continually increasing. The people who get their mail from this office claim to have a greater convenience in connection with the service than the mail service at Fort Saskatchewan. From there it goes to Brookfield and then to Beaver Lake passing through Vegreville, after having been turned over in each of these offices.
No delay is made at Vegreville, the mail is immediately turning about and sending back to Fort Saskatchewan.
This gives business men and others no opportunities to reply to letters which require immediate attention. There is of course a grievance and the people are getting heartily sick of the service, so much so that many have censured the Vegreville post office and are making special trips to Edmonton for their mail. As more mail goes to Vegreville than any other post office in that district, there are certainly good grounds for arguing the department to grant a direct mail service to Vegreville at least once a week from Fort Saskatchewan.

SCHOOL TAXES

June 12, 1903
Bulletin Correspondence.
The question of school taxation of C.
P. R. lands is of the highest importance in the Northwest Territories. It will be remembered that as a result of the case submitted to the Court of King's Bench of Manitoba, it was decided that C. P. R. lands in the Northwest were subject to school taxation.
Since this decision was given school trustees generally have been in doubt as to what action to take, not knowing whether the decision of the Manitoba court was finally effective. It appears that the C. P. R. intends to appeal from this decision to the Supreme Court at Ottawa, and if the judgment of that court is not satisfactory to them to the Imperial Privy Council.
The judgment of the Manitoba court does not finally decide the question, but it decides it for the time being so that school districts will now be justified in assessing the C. P. R. lands within their limits. If the assessment is made now and final judgment is given against the company, it will be possible for the districts to collect their taxes, and if the assessment is not made now, even should the decision be favorable they would not be able to collect. It would probably be doubtful policy for the districts to endurate legal proceedings for the actual collection of taxes until the case has been finally decided by the Imperial Privy Council.

In order to secure an authoritative opinion on this subject Mr. Oliver, ex-ecutively formerly inquired of the government in the House, "Are Canadian Pacific railway lands in the Northwest now subject to school taxation as the result of the recent legal decision by the Manitoba Court?" To this inquiry the minister of Justice replied, "The government is so advised." Mr.
Oliver further wrote to the minister of justice inquiring as to the advisability of school districts undertaking to recover taxes assessed against C. P.
R. lands. To this the minister replied as follows:

"I am advised by our lawyers, Messrs. Howell & Mothershead, that under the judgment of the Court of Appeal of Manitoba, C. P. R. lands in the Northwest Territories are liable to school taxation. There was, however, a dissenting opinion upon this, and besides the judgment is an appeal so that it is a question for the school authorities to decide whether in the circumstances they would take proceedings to recover taxes or not."

Bulletin Correspondence.

The resolutions to aid the Canadian Northern Railway by a guarantee of its bonds were moved in the House of Commons on Wednesday by the minister of railways. In his remarks the minister spoke of the necessity of providing railroad communication through out the Saskatchewan Valley to accommodate the rush of settlers now going there and to make possible their prosperity through the development of the country. On this point he considered there was no difference of opinion. He then dealt at length with the terms of the resolutions in regard to aid, and pointed out that they involved a wide departure from the system hitherto pursued. Up to the present aid has been given railways in the form of a cash bonus, the interest of which was a permanent charge on the revenues of the country. In this case no bonus was being given. The bonds of the company were being guaranteed at three per cent. interest to the amount of thirteen thousand dollars a mile. It was believed that this amount of bonds would be sufficient to build and possibly equip the road. In the faith that the country would be quickly developed and produce a large traffic, and that consequently the company would do a profitable business, it was believed that the country would not be called upon to pay anything in respect of this aid. The credit of the country was being lent to the company, and if the project turned out as expected not a cent of cash would have to be paid. At the same time the government had been careful to take ample security in the way of a first mortgage upon all the road west of Manitoba and a second mortgage on all the balance of the company's property, so that in case the company defaulted in the payment of the interest the government would become the creditor of the company and could foreclose. Its mortgage and become the owner of the road. At the same time it was a part of the resolution and agreement that the rates not only upon the lines of railway aided, but also upon the whole of the line owned by the Canadian Northern Railway should be under the control of the Governor in Council or such other authority as parliament might designate. Development of the country through which the lines were to run was a national necessity. The enterprise promised to be entirely profitable. The government was insuring the early completion of the enterprise, in all probability without cost to the country, but at the same time with ample security in case cost should be incurred, and providing fully for government control of rates. The lines to be aided were 320 miles from Grand View, Manitoba, to Edmonton, and one hundred miles on the F. line Albert branch from Erwood towards Prince Albert. About sixty-five miles of the Edmonton line from Grand View westward was within the province of Manitoba and was included under the first mortgage held by that government on the C. N. R. lines within the province to the amount of ten thousand dollars per mile. On this piece of line the Dominion government would only hold a second mortgage as upon all the rest of the company's lines in Manitoba and Ontario.

Mr. Jordan, leader of the opposition, endorsed what the minister of railways had said as to the need of early construction of a railway to Edmonton. He was disappointed however that the announcement did not include a general policy as to the construction of a new transcontinental line. He only criticised the terms of the resolution for information, and asked that they be not agreed to until Mr. Haggart, ex-minister of railways, who was absent, should have an opportunity of discussing them.

Mr. McLean, of West York, Conservative, endorsed the resolution as being an improvement over any scheme of railway aid that had been brought forward, but spoke strongly in favor of a government line, claiming that government ownership was the only remedy for the present evils of overcapitalization.

Mr. Scott, West Assiniboine, Liberal, spoke of the resolution as being a very great advance on previous schemes of railway assistance. He agreed with Mr. McLean as to the desirability of government ownership, but did not see that the House or country were prepared to give effect to that idea. The need of the construction of this railway was urgent, and the resolution as proposed was probably the next best thing to government ownership. He thought, however, that a provision should be included which would enable the government to take the line over at any time at a valuation. This would make it possible to have government ownership of this line as soon as the mind of the country was made up on the subject. Although the terms of the resolution were satisfactory in many respects, he thought they could still be improved, especially in regard to control of rates. Reduction, not merely control, of rates was the great necessity of the people of the west, and he thought it would be very much better if the resolution provided for definite reductions from present rates. He hoped that before the resolution passed, an amendment would be introduced providing for specific and satisfactory reductions.

Mr. McCreary, Selkirk, Manitoba, Liberal, approved of the general terms of the resolution and reserved his remarks regarding rates until further discussion. He suggested, however, that provision be made so that the bonds which occurred during the construction of the Crow's Nest Pass line should not be repeated on this also government aided Canadian Northern. He considered that the government should be represented by competent engineers throughout construction, so that they might be assured that a permanent and substantial road bed had been built before the guarantee was given. It was possible to build a railway at a comparatively small first cost, which would afterwards cost millions to make a substantial and economical road.

FROM OTTAWA

Mr. Oliver, Alberta, said that the question of rates was more important than that of the method or amount of aid given or even of the securities taken. Present railway rates in the Northwest were abnormally high. They kept back the prosperity of the western farmer by overcharges on his grain going out and they were a dead weight on the commerce and manufactures of eastern Canada to the advantage of their rivals in the United States. He pointed out the great prosperity of the cities of St. Paul and Spokane, which resulted largely from the development of two separate sections of the Canadian West. These cities had grown more rapidly than any in Canada, and largely because of their trade with the Canadian West from which the eastern manufacturer and wholesaler were excluded by the long-haul and higher rates over the C. P. R. Lower rates meant increased profit for the western farmer, but meant the difference between life and death to the eastern manufacturer and wholesaler. He did not consider the general provision regarding rates contained in the resolution as satisfactory. It was not the intention that the railway commission in fixing rates should take cognizance of special assistance given. It was in the interest of both Eastern and Western Canada that the rates over the proposed Canadian Northern should be fixed at the lowest point which the aid granted that railway would justify, and the proper authority to fix those rates was the parliament which granted the aid. Unless the rates over the road proposed to be aided were fixed and fixed on this basis, there would be great dissatisfaction felt by the people who would be dependent upon it for the transportation of their products and supplies.

The resolutions were not passed, awaiting future discussion on the return of Mr. Haggart. Although the resolutions regarding aid have not been passed, the Canadian Northern Railway are actively pushing construction. Contracts are let for the whole road from Grand View to the Southern branch of the Saskatchewan. Several thousand men and teams are now at work. Four hundred miles of steel rails have been ordered for delivery, and contracts have been let for the steel of two bridges upon which the railway will cross the South and North Branches. The crossing of the South Branch is some distance north of Saskatoon, at the same point as the crossing by the old M. & N. railway. The North Branch will be crossed at the Elbow. Each bridge will be over a thousand feet long. The concrete piers will be put in during the coming fall when the water is low, and the steel will be put on during the winter. The company are confident that unless some mishap occurs they will be able to reach Edmonton by the winter of 1904.

The question of Montreal harbor was debated at length last night on the motion of the finance minister to loan three million dollars at three per cent to the Harbor Commissioners for the improvement of the facilities for the port. From his statement it appeared that the government had already advanced since '96, five million dollars at three and a half per cent. The present advances would make the total eight million. It might be supposed that a loan of as much money as was necessary to build a railway across the Northwest would be considered generous by the representatives of the city of Montreal, but not so. The announcement of the finance minister was received with most vigorous protests from Mr. Monk, French leader of the opposition, and from Mr. Tarte, who represents a Montreal constituency. Both desired it to be understood that Montreal was very ill-used because this amount of money and a great deal more, besides was not a gift. They were also strong in protesting that the millions of money that have been spent in deepening the channel of the St. Lawrence in order that steamers might reach Montreal was not for the profit of Montreal.

This claim of a national port, with Montreal figuring as the only port, with already led to stupendous expenditure, and it would seem that with the increase of the size of ocean going vessels, instead of the so-called improvements approaching completion, they are only beginning. Why Canada should spend untold millions in attempting to make Montreal what Quebec is by nature, is a mystery which only the representatives of Montreal, and especially the opposition representatives, can understand. Hon. Mr. Prefontaine and Mr. Bickford, who also represent Montreal constituencies, were reasonable in their attitude, acknowledging that the government had been generous, but claiming that the money was wisely expended and would give good returns. Not so Messrs. Monk and Tarte, the former of whom prophesied that the loans made would put the port of Montreal into bankruptcy, and the latter of whom declared his determination to oppose the government absolutely if it would not deal more generously with Montreal.

The Tregold concession in the Yukon was again brought up by Mr. Chas. Grain, objection being taken to the scope of the Commission appointed to investigate. Mr. Chas. Grain's motion was defeated by 88 to 49.
